Dedicated in Loving Memory of Bryan J. Smith

Our friend has fallen. We carry him on our shields. Our hearts are heavy. We will miss you, dear Bryan.

We ask "Why?" In God's master plan maybe he was only on loan to us. Bryan was one of those special people that God sent us, who suffered and left this world early. In a materialistic world this gets our attention and puts things in the proper perspective. There are no guarantees in life — there isn't any justice.

Let us remember Bryan as he wore #42 and carried the football for the Wolfpack. Let us remember him as he streaked down the track leaving his competitors behind. Think of his quick grin that would flash across his face — think of him riding his motorcycle to school. Remember the courage he showed as he battled his illness.

FAREWELL, BRYAN — WE ALL LOVE YOU.

— Coach Costello

IMMORTALITY

Do not stand by my grave and weep . . .
I am not there. I do not sleep.

I am a thousand winds that blow.
I am a diamond glint on snow.
I am the sunlight on ripened grain.
I am the gentle autumn rain.

When you awake in the morning hush
I am the swift upflying rush
Of quiet birds in circling flight.
I am the soft star shine at night.

Do not stand by my grave and cry . . .
I am not there. I did not die.

Headmaster's Message

Mr. Michael G. Contompasis

TO THE GRADUATING CLASS OF 1986!

I congratulate you, the class of 1986, for the truly outstanding achievement and honor that you have brought to yourself and your Alma Mater. Your dedication and devotion to duty have been exemplary. The years that you have spent here may often have seemed long, arduous, and frustrating. Many of you have not yet realized the value of the Latin School experience. The exposure to a stiff curriculum, the hours spent in preparation of your daily work, the strict adherence to rules and regulations have provided you with the necessary background to further your personal and academic careers. You have been given the means to succeed. A great deal now depends upon how well you apply the lessons learned at Boston Latin School. Be ever mindful of your responsibilities to your parents, your school and your community. Be especially loyal to your Alma Mater. Aid her in every way so that she may continue to provide your successors with the opportunities that you have received. Make it a point to provide the support needed to help future Latin School students.

I congratulate you again for your interest, your cooperation and your success.

I wish you well and Godspeed.
Don't forget us!

Someone has stolen my toupee!

Join the club.

I think I'm sitting on one.

Excuse me?

I have here a list of suspects.

OOO! A mystery! How exciting!

Wow!

Did you take it Owen?

Do I look guilty?

This whole thing is corny.

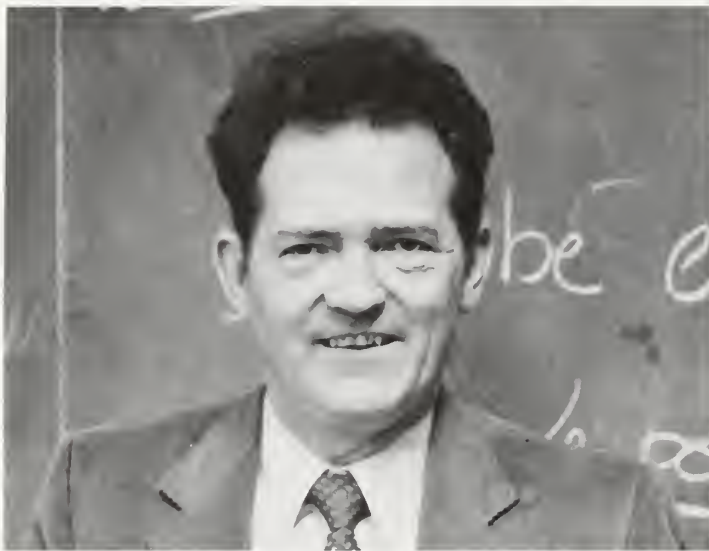

It's outrageous!

Let's be mature about this.

Yes, let's get back to work.

Don't worry about it.

Still, I wonder if we'll ever know . . .

Well, I have a suspicion.

Hee, hee, hee.

And now, for tonight's top story . . .

One of our English teachers has won a trip to Hawaii.

Hawaii? Is that anywhere near Gloucester?

Shucks! I should've taken one of those chances.

Why bother? You never win anything anyway.

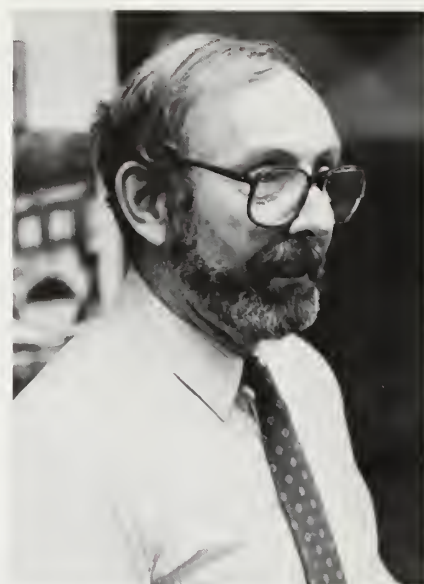

That sounds like sour grapes to me.

Who cares about Hawaii? I'm having fun right here.

I can't believe she said that.

It's true though, class . . . happiness starts at home.

But it's nicer when home is Hawaii.

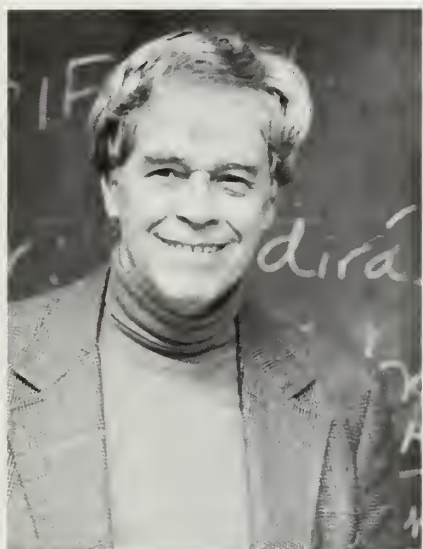

Wait a minute. Who's the big winner?

Go ask Mr. Bowlby. He's been smiling a great deal.

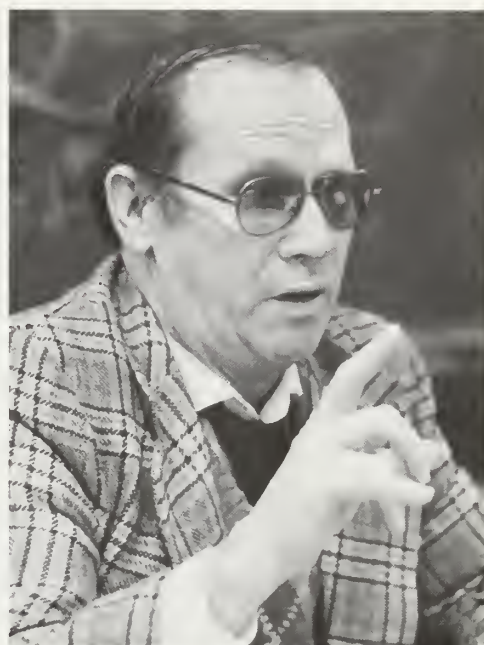

She's right. He has been.

I'm not saying anything ... until my leis arrive.

Go ahead, rub it in.

Wait a minute! If Mr. Bowlby won, why are Mr. Flynn and Mr. Tarpey so happy?

I'm happy because he's leaving his house keys with me.

And I'm happy because he's staying in the expensive hotel I own.

Forget Hawaii. I'd rather be in New York.

Gather around boys and girls.

Oh goody! It's story time.

This is the story of Dr. Scheufele and Mr. Shluzas.

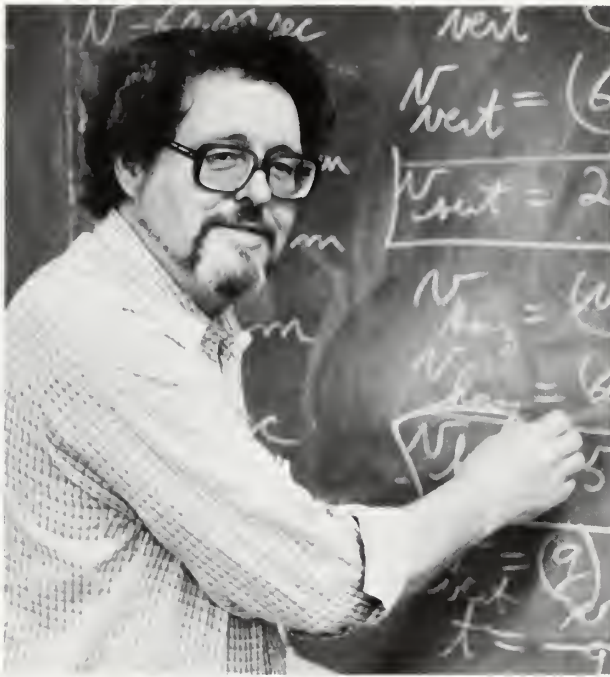

Dr. Scheufele was an outstanding citizen in the community.

Until I injected him with the transforming serum.

The plot thickens . . .

I'm getting it all down.

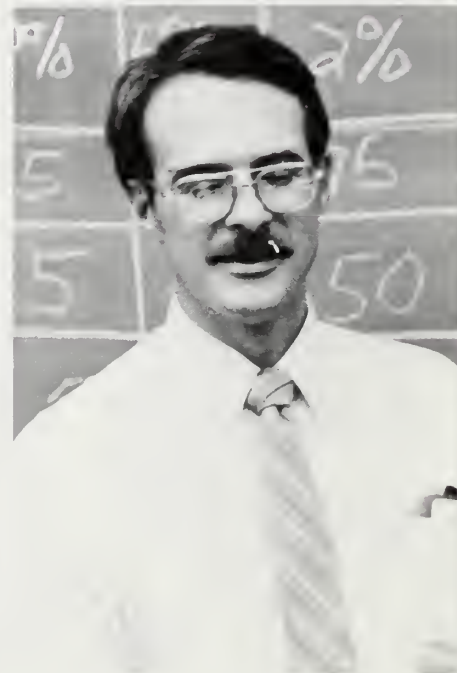

Until finally the good doctor was transformed into . . . Mr. Shluzas!

Heh, heh, heh.

Did you all pay attention?

Zzzzzzz.

Suppose, Tony, that women were to take over the department . . .

Nah — it'll never happen.

Well, judging by the ratio of men to women in the department today, it is a distinct possibility.

I'd like to throw all the men out!

Thatta girl!

You'll never get me out. I'm in charge.

That's what he thinks.

Typical male attitude. "I'm in charge."

And what about those chauvinistic jokes they tell?

Do I look like that sort of person? Heh, heh . . .

That's a trick question, right?

About all we can do is grin and bear it.

I have a plan. I'm gonna catch them one by one as they leave their rooms.

Thank God I brought a bag lunch.

Why are men always in charge around here?

Because honey, that's the way it was, that's the way it is, and that's the way it will be.

What's in this for you if I tell you what I did?

I used to be a little red ball about this size . . .

For years I was a Maine lobster.

I was a preacher.

I can't remember, but I was very, very rich.

I was a male model.

I lived on the island of Bermuda . . . I was a rock.

They called me Confucius.

I was Herbie Hancock.

If I told you, you wouldn't believe me. Heh, heh, heh . . .

Past lives? Uh . . . I don't know anything about any past lives.

Mr. Ordway doesn't want to admit it, but he was Clyde and I was Bonnie.

I was a mummy.

In my last life I was the head of the Math department, and I did so well, they asked me back.

Well, I've gained a little weight since then, but . . .

I have glasses now, but . . .

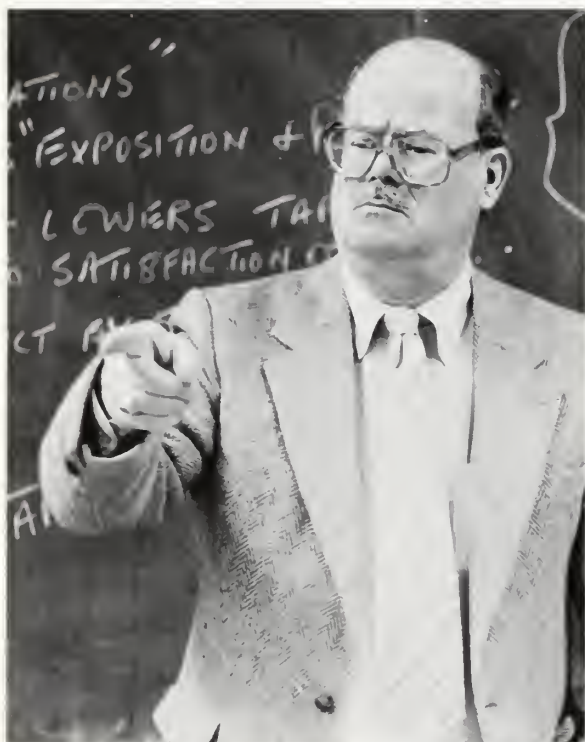

Gee, it must be me.

Well, the handsome part fits.

Wait a minute! That picture looks just like me.

Don't speak so fast!

Don't look at me — I'm a coach, not a marine.

This is ridiculous.

There's always something funny going on around here.

We have completed a long journey. We have walked in the footprints of the great, and in the process have become great. Iacta alea est. Let us not be hesitant to explore the new avenues that Latin School has opened for us, but let us be secure in the knowledge that we are now well prepared to succeed in all endeavors. Classmates, we are the future, and the future shines very brightly indeed.

Sincerely,
Daniel J. Breen

Mr. Beninati — Senior class advisor

It is time to say good-bye to the Class of 1986 and to wish all of you good luck on your promising future.

It has been a pleasure to work with the members of this class and especially its elected officers. The sincere interest on the part of the officers and class committee members has been a very positive force in making my work interesting and rewarding.

The members of the Class of 1986 have achieved great academic honors and for that I want to congratulate them. In addition, the Class has been most cooperative in the many projects undertaken this year.

Once again, good luck to all and God bless you!

Sincerely yours,
Guy A. Beninati
Senior Class Advisor

Medical Report

Subject: senioritis contagiosus.

Symptoms: In early stages of the disease, the afflicted individual will show slight signs of restlessness and lapses of attention during class, with periods of sleeping bouts and daydreaming, not to mention staring out windows. As the malady progresses, the individual begins to lose motor control over the upper limbs, due to gradual neurological deterioration of the cerebral cortex. This results in the inability to write out homework or even concentrate. The individual soon loses interest in school. In severe cases, the patient is either too weak to get out of bed or will get to school but sleep through all his classes, however, he becomes extremely hyperactive as the calendar approaches May 28th. Manifestations of this condition begin during January, though there are reported cases starting as early as September.

Etiology: There are no proven theories as to the causes of this widespread condition. It has been theorized, however, that this disease may originate from a unique virus that flourishes in the confines of school paper. This virus is currently being examined by top medical researchers and doctors. Several discoveries have already been made: the virus releases an unidentified chemical that acts as some type of pheromone — a biological/chemical attractant — that attracts certain human body chemicals located just under the skin surface. This attraction evidently stimulates skin pores to open and allows the virus to pass into the victim's nervous system. It has also been found that this condition is extremely contagious, but appears to affect only seniors in high school.

Treatment: Fortunately, senioritis is not incurable. Over the years, two treatments have been found to be 98% effective.

1) Complete rest and relaxation. It is believed that stress stimulates the virus into reproduction. By lowering the incidence of stress, the individual's natural defense system will develop more effective antibodies against the virus.

2) Abstinence from homework. Since the virus originates in school paper, it would be logical to remove the irritant from the presence of the individual. The less that he is exposed to the virus, the more likely it is that he will get well.

Both treatments will result in 100% recovery in about three months (depending upon how long it is until May 28th from the first day of treatment. Early detection will bring the best results; if this condition is left untreated, the individual will end his school year in an attitude of boredom, and then elation as he says farewell to the school and to his teachers for the last time.

Typical Symptom — Disrespect

No — I don't want to go to class!

Look thou character. Give thy thoughts no tongue,
Nor any unproportion'd thought his act.
Be thou familiar, but by no means vulgar,
Those friends thou hast, and their adoption tried,
Grapple them to thy soul with hoops of steel;
But do not dull thy palm with entertainment
Of each new-hatch'd, unfledged comrade. Beware
Of entrance to a quarrel, but being in,
Bear 't that the opposed may beware of thee.
Give every man thy ear, but few thy voice;
Take each man's censure, but reserve thy judgement.
Costly thy habit as thy purse can buy,
But not express'd in fancy; rich, not gaudy;
For the apparel oft proclaims the man,
And they in France of the best rank and station
Are of a most select and generous chief in that.
Neither a borrower nor a lender be;
For loan oft loses both itself and friend,
And borrowing dulls the edge of husbandry.
This above all: to thine own self be true,
And it must follow, as the night the day,
Thou canst not then be false to any man.
Farewell: my blessing season this in thee!
